What's What HOTELS

SCENTS OF PLACE

Perfumers rely on the fact that scents evoke some of our strongest memories. That truth is not lost on hoteliers, who hope an at-home whiff of their signature scent will prompt a return visit. Plaza Athénée (dorchestercollection.com) gives departing guests' luggage a quick spritz of the hotel's signature scent Ambre Mythique by Maitre Parfumeur et Gantier. When guests open their suitcases back home, voilà! The Langham's (langhamhotels.com) dewy, green Ginger Flower scent was the first and is still one of the most famous hotel scents. Cult-favorite fragrance house Le Labo created a rich, dark, and complex scent (above) for EDITION Hotels (editionhotels.com) and the light, floral Rose 31 fragrance for Fairmont Hotels (fairmont.com); though The Savoy (fairmont.com) in London partnered with elite British perfumer Penhaligon to create Savoy Steam, echoing a hammam experience. The Ritz-Carlton's (ritzcarlton.com) citrus-spicy Purple Water was created by eminent New Bond Street jeweler Asprey. Barcelona's Majestic Hotel & Spa (majestichotelgroup.com) diffuses its sophisticated, seductive scent Musc Impérial (by Atelier Cologne) throughout the hotel. The scent of the sea is evoked by Eau d'Italie from Positano's cliffside hotel, Le Sirenuse (lesirenuse.com). La Réserve Group (michelreybierhospitality.com), including La Réserve Eden au Lac in Zurich (below) and La Réserve Paris, has a scent that can best be described as luxurious and elegant. Most signature scents—candles, diffusers, and room sprays—are available through the hotels' websites. Air/Aroma (air-aroma.com) designs scents for hotels, fashion brands, and high-end events, and can create an exclusive scent for your home or office.

THE TAKE AWAY

Hotel chefs are teaching online cooking classes and cocktail-making lessons. But you can also access their recipes via their cookbooks (above): The Ranch at Malibu released Food Food Food ($38; theranchmalibu.com), which includes over 100 gorgeous, easy-to-make, plant-based recipes developed by Ranch chefs. Singita: Our Food Journey ($75; singita.com) shares bold, African-inspired recipes from the famed lodges and safari camps (below).

Celebrity chef Nobuyuki Matsuhisa (aka Nobu) shares recipes for his most popular Japanese-fusion dishes in the coffee table-sized World of Nobu ($70; pie.co.jp). Look to COMO Hotel & Resorts' The Pleasures of Eating Well ($67; comoshambhala.com) for chef-crafted, Asian-inspired recipes. Chef Raymond Blanc of double-Michelin-starred Belmond Le Manoir aux Quat'Saisons has released The Lost Orchard ($45; raymondblanc.com) with his most celebrated from-the-garden dishes. Cal-a-Vie, a destination spa on 500 acres near San Diego, presents its Beautiful Living cookbook ($75; cal-a-vie.com) with healthy recipes and lifestyle tips. From Lake Como, Villa d'Este's A Culinary Experience ($125; villadeste.com) features classic Italian recipes and the stories behind them.
